

The background of the poster is a photograph of a railway track. In the foreground, two parallel steel rails run diagonally from the bottom left towards the middle right. They are supported by concrete sleepers and surrounded by dark gravel ballast. In the background, several buildings are visible under a clear sky. On the left, there's a multi-story brick building and a lower concrete structure. In the center, a blue building with many windows is visible. To the right, a brown brick building is partially seen. The overall scene is an urban or suburban railway environment.
